Merry Christmas to our 3105 Exalumnos!

This morning I was at a meeting with representatives of schools and universities. Due to the fact that everyone is busy preparing for Christmas, a decision was taken to wait for the next meeting to continue the process of evaluating a project.

This should not come as a surprise. Many international congresses have taken place, calling the attention of all of us in regard to the necessity to protect the earth. The emission of toxic gases, the waste of water, the production of food, etc. The investigations of scientists bring to our attention the causes of health deterioration. After the development of new strains of cereals there is now alarm that this has caused health problems which were uncommon. The experts do continue looking for solutions which is a necessity but I also have to examine my conscience and recognize that not all I have done has been positive.

We live with our limitations to which we are sometimes blind. Throughout the international community there is concern in regard to the women and men who are held in captivity and today Colombia is calling for help. The response in Buenos Aires from the leaders of many countries is one of fraternal concern. The report this evening was impressive and the reactions of these leaders are considered to be sincere and serious. The obvious exception was the lack of communication between the leaders of Colombia and Venezuela. Pacho Santos made the statement that Colombians are indifferent to the situation which President Uribe as to deal with.
